

NOVA

This document is not edited. Unfortunately, when I produce this type materials, especially when I am not feeling well, I have to take more breaks than usual. The document will be hopefully edited and posted in its' entirety later in the day. Thank you for your patience. And thank you for following my work online.

It may be a nice sounding word, it even looks nice. Although the television show on Discovery Channel has a program entitled "Nova", red chevy Nova is all that comes to mind. It is the type car I was driving that day when the "Lynch Mob" came after me. Of course they refer to themselves as a "Task Force Unit." Certainly they may want to consider themselves as a task force and not Lynch Mob, but when you are participating in criminal activities derived from fraud, deception, discrimination and various other violations of the law, you should be considered to be the same as any other criminal that goes about destroying peoples lives and violating rights.

Their perception of themselves is only so, because they are the ones writing the official reports surrounding such instances. However, as I have mentioned in the past, especially as it relates to the Connecticut Attorney Generals' Office, along with the Chief States' Attorney Office charged with prosecuting criminals. It is a break down in societal values when the protector of laws, and the rights of the citizens become rogue themselves. "The misrepresentation of material facts....," etc., as established by the law should not be committed by those charged with protecting those laws, once again.

For the State of Connecticut, to hire attorneys such as Deborah Nemeth to pose as an attorney independent, and privately working for injured workers, to only be a part of a Task Force operated by the state is a severe breach in the public trust of the citizenry. It is more than a conflict of interest to be on the payroll of the state, and also representing private individuals against the state. It occurred to me, and I actually thought that the attorney was working on my behalf. She was actually working on behalf of the State and the Workers Compensation Commission as an agent of the Attorney General's Office. Her task in the force was to defraud injured Black workers of their benefits, and causing them to commit workers compensation fraud. This is also what is meant in SEBAC 2011 Attachment "H", where it references "artificial reductions." The attorneys for one, artificially are representing their clients, and two without the knowledge of the employee, and thus creating reductions of benefits, in violation of the criminal statutes and C.G.S 31-290(c).

However, since the State is in charge of prosecuting crimes and at the same time is in fact the criminals. The employees rights are more than violated. These are only part of the 750 million dollars of savings listed in the Workers Compensation Chairman's report. Of which, as criminals they divide amongst themselves unlike bank robbers or any other criminal.

Upon uncovering these frauds and violations as early as 1994-5, the State Department of Corrections first attempt to discredit your character by attempting to coherse a person like myself to become addicted to "crack." When that didn't work, they terminate your employment, as done by Brian K. Murphy through personnel officers Mitch Drabek, Linda Fowler, and Dianne Pierpont among others. Then, they post a notice on your place of employment, at the facility, where you nearly lost your life protecting the people of the state. The notice boldly states: "Former Corrections Officer Anthony McKnight is not allowed in the facility," or something similar to that. Then, they have the union representatives along with the administrative staff release word of mouth propaganda against you, that you committed a crime. Only, the crime had not been committed. This is the "Lynch Mob," that was suppose to plant drugs and such in your Nova, that you where driving to Staples in order to make copies of documents to be filed against the state in Federal Court. The only problem is with their plan is, it didn't work as they thought, and everyone attempts to cover it up.

However, it is mentioned in the biography of people like Representative Lawlor as "New Workers Compensation Laws." They actually give themselves credit for designing criminal policy to destroy innocent people lives. They attempt to cover up the passage and signing into law SEBAC IV, and V, howbeit years later. They aren't even man and woman enough to stand up and admit their crimes, because that is what they were. They were committing crimes, while at the same time introducing legislation to reduce overcrowding in prisons. What a Joke.

Worst is, each state employee, most whom hold the title, "Lawyer," actually violate the laws with impunity. They do it in separately, apart from each other, but in conspiracy with one another. The principle personnel officer that terminates a person without their knowledge does so, and is protected by the Office of Attorney General. The Workers Compensation Commissioner delays benefits to continue your sufferings financially, the department of administrative services employ tactics of threatening you with personnel action. The attorney working for the state that you thought was working for you, actually intentionally misrepresents, and advise you. The Comptrollers Office through their personnel, intentionally misapply the laws. The Treasurers' Office refuses to be accountable, or attend meetings that would solve the issue. There are multiple agencies and personnel that participate in the fraud, and act to plausibly deny the entirety of the conspiracy to commit the crimes.

It doesn't end there, even if you attempt to, like I did, obtain employment with the local School Board, you are similarly conspired against, as those individuals cross State, Federal, and Local public jurisdictions through what is known as fraternal organizations. Mr. Ben Hunter was a member, and on behalf of Representatives Walker, and Sen. Harp was to carry out an even more sinister plot against me for what they aptly refer to as "the brotherhood," or "the cause." Neither one, individually knowing what the "cause," for the death and destruction is. They only know that they are loyal to it. They actually invited, me upon my discovery of the frauds they were committing, to join the fraternity. It was my refusal to be a part of there cause, which caused me to become their enemy.

What surprised me even more was the fact that the Comptrollers Office participates in the fraud as well. They won't process legal documents that are in accordance with the law, and specifically stated in the law. The only thing that comes close to this shock is when my mother stopped breast feeding me when I was two years of age. They say that a child cannot remember as such an early age, but I remember the Nova incident the same as I remember the day in the kitchen when she began breast feeding my brother who just came home from the hospital. The breasts were no longer mine, the benefits that was given white people were not mine. The breast feeding I got over, this discrimination because I am Black is impossible to get over, just as the "lynch mob" in the Staples parking lot. I remember the incidents like I can remember the color of the walls and the television and the people in the room when Martin Luther King Jr., was assassinated, and I believe I was only three years of age at that time. It is as if your mind takes an imprint and it is burned into your conscience forever. It doesn't seem to have a place in time, it is just always present. I can't see a red car and not think of that Staples parking lot, and when I see a red Nova, and thank God they are few and far between now. I recount the entire incident in my mind.
